

AARC Flow Chart for Youth Receiving Services

A referral is made. This referral can be made in many different ways including: walk-ins, phone-referral, JIAS, outside agencies, self-referral, etc.

Upon receiving the referral an initial appointment will be established. During the initial visit a referral form is completed on the youth.

Informal interviews are conducted with parents and youth.

Following the initial meeting, an assessment tool is administered. The POSIT (youth) and POSIP (parents or guardians) help to determine the youth's strengths/ needs. The information gathered during the interviews and from the assessments will be utilized to determine appropriate recommended services for the youth and family.

During the follow-up meeting, the results of the tools and other information gathered are discussed with the youth and family. A Plan for Success is developed, with the youth and family providing a majority of the input. The plan will determine what program services will be provided to the youth and families.
